

Mayors Challenge Survey Responses

Prepared by the Texas Health and Human Services Commission (HHSC), Strategic Decision Support, Research and Evaluation Division

Purpose

A workgroup consisting of the Texas Department of Aging and Disability Services, Texas Department of Assistive and Rehabilitative Services, Texas Health and Human Services Commission, Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, Texas State Affordable Housing Corporation, and Texas Veterans Commission (called “the workgroup” within this appendix) worked together on one of the study requirements which required that the study provide information on the status of homeless Veterans in Texas.

To address this requirement, the workgroup gathered information from Texas cities that agreed to participate in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)'s Mayors Challenge 2015 as described in Appendix H.

Methodology

HHSC Strategic Decision Support aided the workgroup in designing a survey instrument to assess local efforts to end Veteran homelessness in Texas. The survey was sent to one contact person, generally a city government employee, in each of the eight Texas cities participating in the Challenge.<sup>1</sup> Participating cities include Austin, Crystal City, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Plano, San Antonio, and Waco. City government employees in each city were notified about the upcoming survey by phone and mail in early 2016. In late February 2016, each city was sent a link to complete the survey online.

This report presents the results of the Mayors Challenge survey. In total, seven of eight cities completed the survey.<sup>2</sup> The results below detail the state of Veteran services in each city, how each city has approached the Mayors Challenge, and how each city has fared in its efforts to achieve HUD-defined benchmarks.

<sup>1</sup> Of note, the HUD website lists 11 cities as participating in the Mayors Challenge. After contacting each city in preparation for the survey however, three cities indicated that they never undertook activities as part of the Mayors Challenge. The survey was sent to the remaining eight cities.

* Waco had already begun their process of identifying the most vulnerable using the training and tools from the 100,000 Homes campaign in 2013-14 (described in greater detail in Appendix H). Waco also began its pilot for HUD's Coordinated Entry/Access in late 2014 early 2015. With those two tools Waco was able to add Veterans as a priority as soon as the initiative was suggested. Waco launched its Coordinated Access Program fully in October of 2015. This allowed Waco to continue to identify veterans through this service as well as using the Vulnerability Index ("VI") – Service Prioritization Decision Assistance Tool ("SPDAT") intake tool from the 100,000 Homes toolkit. Those tools along with Waco's Memorandum ("MOU") with Homeless Management Information System ("HMIS") and the VA, and the coordination and education to others about the services offered, have played a major role in ensuring veterans do not fall through the cracks in Waco.

Housing/Assistance Programs Used or Referred to by Cities

Discharge Status

City	Do you take Veteran discharge status into account when allocating city-controlled homeless services?	When Veterans did not qualify for U.S. Veteran Affairs assistance because of discharge status or other issues, how were those Veterans served?
San Antonio	No, there are no restrictions on city services based on discharge status.	Veterans are provided services through: City General Funds, CoC Funded Projects, USAA Foundation Grant
Houston	No, there are no restrictions on city services based on discharge status.	Assessed for housing through our Coordinated Access program and placed into PSH with Continuum of Care funds and other federal funds.
Fort Worth	Yes, there are some city homeless services for those who were not honorably discharged, but they are more restricted than those for Veterans honorably discharged.	Use of the Community Services Block Grant and Comprehensive Energy Assistance Program through the Community Action Partners program have been primary resources.
Austin	Other: There are currently no veteran specific-City funded projects. However, Veterans are served through the various CoC and City provided programs as deemed eligible and available.	Initially, all Veterans are assessed through the ECHO Coordinated Assessment and entered into HMIS. The CoC Housing Navigator and/or program staff verify Veteran status prior to program referral and enrollment. If a Veteran is identified as ineligible for VA assistance, the Veteran is referred the non-Veteran CoC housing that they are otherwise eligible for. The Austin/Travis County CoC implemented a "Veteran Preference" for non-Veteran specific housing interventions to expedite the housing placements for all Vets-not just those eligible for VA care.
Plano	No, there are no restrictions on city services based on discharge status.	Served through continuum-of-care homeless services
El Paso	No, there are no restrictions on city services based on discharge status.	If not eligible for veterans assistance they apply through the County of El Paso General Assistance program
Waco	No, there are no restrictions on city services based on discharge status.	Those veterans are immediately linked to all other services and agencies through coordinated access that meet their need.
